[Recovery of Federal Share of Medicaid Overpayments]. October 27, 1978. 2 pp. + enclosure (1 pp.).

Report to Robert A. Derzon, Administrator, Health Care Financing Administration; by Robert E. Iffert, Jr., Assistant Director, Human Resources Div.

Contact: Human Resources Div.

Organization Concerned: New York: Office of the Special Prosecutor.

Authority: P.L. 95-142.

One New York office responsible for collecting overpayments for medicaid providers is the Office of Special Prosecutor. This office has over 400 professional employees and about 140 clerical and support staff involved in collecting overpayments and prosecuting providers who defraud the program. As of September 30, 1978, $3.8 million of medicaid overpayments had been collected, and interest earned on these collected funds was $301,187. All of these collected funds have been deposited in a special, interest-bearing account controlled by the State Comptroller's Office, but none of the funds have been returned to the Federal Government. According to State medicaid officials, return of the Federal share has been delayed because State and local officials have been unable to agree on a formula for distributing to each local government its proportionate share of the recovered funds. State officials advised that the Federal share would be adjusted on the Statement of Expenditures for the quarter ended September 30, 1978. The Administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration should require that: the appropriate adjustment or recoupment is made for the collected funds, including interest, on the September 30, 1978, Statement of Expenditures; and the Federal Government be given timely credit for its share of future collections. Mr. Robert A. Derzon, Administrator
Health Care Financing Administration
Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Dear Mr. Derzon:

We currently are conducting a survey of New York's and Georgia's systems for recovering overpayments made to Medicaid providers and for returning to the Federal government its share of the recovered funds.

While performing the survey in New York, we learned that one State office responsible for collecting overpayments from Medicaid providers is the Office of Special Prosecutor. This office, which HEW certified under Public Law 95-142 for 90 percent Federal financial participation, has over 400 professional employees (auditors, investigators, and attorneys) and about 140 clerical and support staff involved in collecting overpayments and prosecuting providers who defraud the program.

The first Medicaid overpayments collected by the Special Prosecutor's Office were in February 1976 and as of September 30, 1978, $3.8 million had been collected. Interest earned as of September 30, 1978, on these collected funds was $301,187 resulting in a total fund balance of $4.1 million as shown by the appendix to this letter.

All of the collected funds are deposited and retained in a special, interest bearing account controlled by the State Comptroller's Office. None of the funds have been returned to the Federal government even though it pays approximately 50 percent of New York's Medicaid expenditures--the remaining 50 percent is shared one half by the State and one half by 58 local governments (New York City and 57 counties).

According to State Medicaid officials, return of the Federal share of these funds has been delayed because State and local officials have been unable to agree among themselves on a formula for distributing to each local government its proportionate share of the recovered funds. State officials agree with us, however, that this problem would not prohibit the State from determining and returning the Federal government's share.

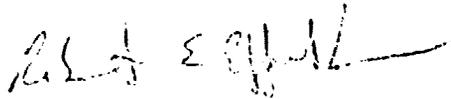

An HCFA region II Medicaid representative told us that the region became aware in about May 1977 that the Federal share of these funds had not been returned. He said that several inquiries about this matter have been made since that date and that he was informed on each occasion that the State was working on resolving the matter. He said that after we discussed the matter with State officials, he was advised that the return of the Federal share would be adjusted on the Statement of Expenditures for the Medical Assistance Program (OA-41) for the quarter ended September 30, 1978. During our discussions with them, State officials told us also that the appropriate adjustment would be made on their September 30, 1978, expenditure report.

Because of the continued delay by the State to return the Federal share of these funds, we recommend that you require that

- the appropriate adjustment or recoupment is made for the collected funds, including interest, on the September 30, 1978, Statement of Expenditures and
- the Federal government be given timely credit for its share of future collections.

We would appreciate your advising us within the next 30 days of any actions taken or planned regarding this matter.

Sincerely yours,

Robert E. Iffert, Jr.
Assistant Director
